

Resource 1

Look at the resource below, where some people share who their role models are and why.

Do you have a role model?
Why are they your role model?

Paul Ellis, who has had both legs amputated, climbed/crawled to the top of Snowdon to raise money for amputee children. It must have been so tough but I think he is incredible. I want to set myself a really tough challenge to help others just like Paul Ellis did.

*Pictured above: Paul Ellis climbing Snowdon
Taken from Kier Nicholson's Facebook Page*

Ashvin

My Grandad coaches at my junior football club. He has volunteered his time and skills to help teach and inspire others to love football and has done so for over 40 years! He says he will hopefully one day pass his coaching role onto me and I really want to do it.

Bethan

My role model is my mum. She works hard and she is so kind. She is a chef and is very good at it. I want to be a chef, just like her, when I grow up.

Jerome

We have learned about Mary Seacole at school and I would like to be just like her. She was very brave and helped many soldiers who had been injured on the battlefield.

Pictured right: Statue of Mary Seacole

Miriam

I think Emma Raducanu is amazing, not just because she is very good at tennis but because she seems so determined.

Pictured above: Emma Raducanu

Lewis

My best friend always has brilliant ideas for games, which I always use. He also always gets an exciting pencil case and lunchbox, which I like so I try to get the same.

Sarah